1. A communications establishment exists to the west of the Bucharest-Floesti road, 0.4 kilometers north of the village of Tiganesti. The installation is situated about 0.3 kilometers north of the bridge which carries the main highway over the Ialomita River and about 250 meters west of the road.
2. Seven single-story buildings, with whitewashed walls and red tile roofs, are located on a site enclosed with a wire fence. Approximately six vertical masts, pole-type, are situated to the north of the buildings. These masts, about 60 feet in height, are heavily secured with guy wires, but no aerials appear to be rigged as yet.
3. Another pole-type mast, estimated height 50 feet, carries two parabolic reflectors, one mounted above the other, and both pointing in the direction of the western outskirts of Floesti. The mean height of the reflectors, which are mounted fairly close together, is estimated as 40 feet. The reflectors are of the solid type (i.e. not wire mesh), are about three to four feet in diameter and painted a dull green.
4. The buildings appear to be new and clean. No vehicles or personnel were observed.
